N DIVISIONS BY THE RUSSIANS; GERMAN-CHIEF TAKEN

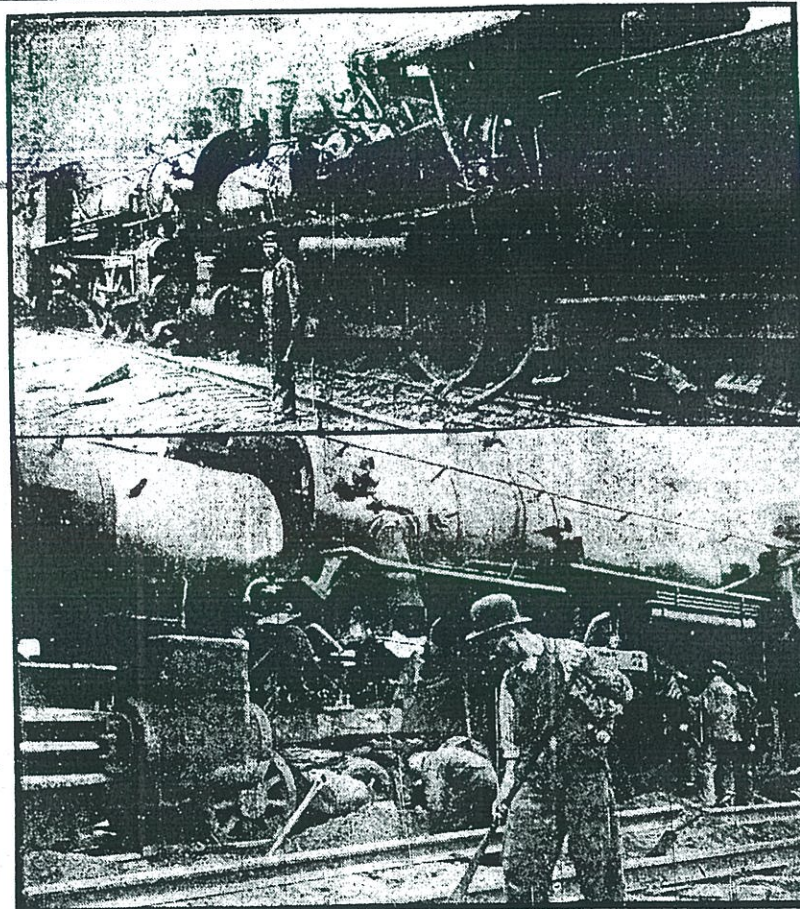

Official Report. LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Russian embassy here has reported to the general staff at Petrograd the following account of the Russian reversals in East Prussia: "Our offensive continues in our western position in eastern Prussia. Our troops have destroyed the railroad stations at Landsberg, Roessel and Bischofsstein, and the Hells-Berg-Zintzen and the Barten-Koenigsberg railroads. "In the southern portion of East Prussia the Germans brought up reinforcements along our whole front and attacked our two army corps. These corps suffered a check, caused by the heavy artillery which the Germans brought up from neighboring forts on the Vistula. "Our contact with the enemy remains unbroken and fresh Russian troops are arriving on the Austrian frontier. "The stubborn fighting continues."

Turkish Ambassador At Washington Says He Has Not Been in Communication With His Government for Some Days—It Looks As Though German Influence Bore Fruit.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Dow, Jones & Co. to-day published the following on its new tickers: "London—Unconfirmed reports are current here that Turkey has declared war on Russia. Communication with Constantinople has been cut off for three days and the Turkish ambassador stated he had no way of telling when he would hear from his Government again."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Turkish ambassador here said to-day he was unable to confirm the report that his country had declared war on Russia. He has not been in communication with his Government for days. "What is even more significant is that the semi-official Bulgarian newspaper, The Politika, states that the object of all the educated circles in Bulgaria. This would mean that Bulgaria, which on account of her accident of language, was joined to the Slav nations, now disclaims a community of interest with the Slav people and proclaims herself a sister nation of the Turkish people, which in reality she is."

RUSSIAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT. PETROGRAD (St. Petersburg), Sept. 2, via London. The following official announcement was made public here to-day: "Our forces invading Galicia have continued their advance on the front of Lemberg. The enemy fell back gradually but we captured some cannon, some rapid-fire guns and some prisoners. "Near Gula (7) and Lissa (7) the enemy occupied a position of such natural strength that it was considered impracticable to attempt to stop our advance by a flanking attack on the flank of Maltz (7). "We repulsed the Austrians, inflicting severe losses. A battlefield 14,800 Austrians dead, captured a flag and 32 guns of supplies and made many prisoners, including a general. "On the south front, in the Warcov district, the enemy has been repulsed with success. According to the official report, we forced the Austrians to retreat, capturing 3 calibers and over 1,000 prisoners. According to statement of the Austrian losses were very heavy. "A telegram received in London to-day from the chief of the general staff declares that the Russian advance in Eastern Galicia is purely local and due to the sudden reinforcement of German (at Graudenz and Thorn) and the arrival of their Russian reinforcements also arrived."

War Summary

The fourth day of the second general battle between the Germans and the allies found Emperor William's forces pressing, with unprecedented steadiness, their advance on Paris. Their right is reported to be within 40 miles of the French capital. In the absence of official announcements it is indicated by news dispatches that the British and French continue a stubborn resistance, giving way slowly, however, whenever this strategy is used to keep British lines intact. An enveloping movement by the German right. In the East the fighting progresses with unabated fury. Both the Russian and the Austrian armies have met successes and reverses. It is admitted in Petrograd (St. Petersburg) that two army corps were defeated by the Germans in East Prussia and that three Russian generals were lost. On the other hand, the Austrians appear to have been defeated in Galicia, where the British and French continue a stubborn resistance. This claim finds support in a dispatch from Vienna, which states that the Austrians had decided to evacuate Lemberg, the capital of Galicia. Official dispatches from Petrograd, coming by way of London, show evidence of having been closely censored in London. The attitude of Turkey and Italy are anxiously awaited by all the belligerents. A semi-official dispatch from Petrograd states that Turkish troops have landed on the shores of Asia Minor at Smyrna. Further pressure is reported to have been brought to bear by Germany and Austria to have the support of the triple alliance. The Japanese foreign office has issued a statement complaining of the alleged unfair treatment of Japanese non-combatants in Germany. The significance of the removal of the German military headquarters from Berlin to an unknown destination is difficult to estimate, but the change is regarded as highly interesting. The announcement by a Paris paper that German staff officers have been captured and interned at Nimes is the first intimation of this incident. It is not likely to be significant, although it is taken as evidence the Germans were taken prisoners. The Russian embassy here has thought it desirable formally to deny reports of defeat at Vilna, which it attributes to German and Austrian sources. The embassy has received a dispatch from Petrograd (St. Petersburg) declaring the reports to be without foundation and stating that Vilna is perfectly calm. War Summary

The fourth day of the second general battle between the Germans and the allies found Emperor William's forces pressing, with unprecedented strength, their advance on Paris. Their right arm reported to be within 40 miles of the French capital.
In the absence of official announcements it is indicated by news dispatches that the British and French continue a stubborn resistance, giving way slowly, however, whenever this strategy is used to keep British lines intact and prevent an enveloping movement by the Germans.
In the East the fighting progresses with unabated fury. Both the Russian and the Austro-German armies have met successes and reverses.
It is admitted in Petrograd (St. Peter-burg) that two army corps were defeated by the Germans in East Prussia and that three Russian generals were lost.
On the other hand, the Austrians appear to have been defeated in Galicia, where overwhelming successes are claimed by the Russians. This claim finds support in a dispatch from Vienna, which states that the Austrians had decided to evacuate Lemberg from the capital of Galicia.
Official dispatches from Petrograd, coming by way of London, show evidence of having been closely censored in London.
The attitude of Turkey and Italy are anxiously awaited by all the belligerents. A semi-official dispatch from Petrograd says that Turkish troops have landed on the shores of Asia Minor at Smyrna. Further pressure is reported to have been brought on Italy by Germany and alliance.
The Japanese foreign office has issued a statement complaining of an alleged unfair treatment of Japanese non-combatants in Germany.
The significance of the removal of the German military headquarters from Petersburg to an unknown destination is difficult to estimate, but the change is regarded as highly interesting.
The announcement by a Paris paper that 14 German staff officers have been captured and interned at Nimes is the first intimation of this incident. It may possibly be significant, although it is not said where the Germans were taken prisoners.
The Russian embassy here has thought it

War Summary

The fourth day of the second general battle between the Germans and the allies found Emperor William's forces pressing, with unprecedented vigor, their advance on Paris. Their right is reported to be within 10 miles of the French capital.
In the absence of official announcement it is indicated by news dispatches that the British and French continue a stubborn resistance, giving way slowly, however, whenever this strategy is used to keep British lines intact and prevent a developing movement by the German right.
In the East the fighting progresses with unabated fury. The Russian and the Austro-German armies have met successes and reverses.
It is admitted in Petrograd (St. Petersburg) that two army corps were lost by the Germans in East Prussia and that three Russian generals were slain.
On the other hand, the Austrians appear to have been defeated in Galicia, where overwhelming successes are claimed by the Russians. This claim finds support in a dispatch from Vienna, which stated that the Austrians had decided to evacuate Lemberg, the capital of Galicia.

The attitudes of Turkey and Italy are anxiously awaited by all the belligerents. A semi-official dispatch from Petrograd says that Turkish troops have landed on the shores of Asia-Minor at Smyrna. Further pressure is reported to have been brought on Italy by Germany and Austria to have her support the triple alliance.
The Japanese foreign office has issued a statement repudiating the alleged statement of treatment of Japanese non-combatants in Germany.
The significance of the removal of the German military headquarters from Berlin to an unknown destination is difficult to estimate, but the change is regarded as highly interesting.
The announcement of a Paris paper that German staff officers have been captured and interned at Nimes is also of great importance. It may possibly be significant, although it was not said whether the Germans were taken prisoners.
The Russian embassy here has thought it desirable formally to deny reports of defeats at Vilna, which it attributes to the German and Austrian sources. The embassy has received a dispatch from Petrograd (St. Petersburg) declaring the reports to be without foundation and stating that Vilna is perfectly calm. The Christian and Jewish populations are working together for the relief of the famine-stricken.

G.T.R. EXPRESS BROADSIDES AN ENGINE

Fireman Thrown Across Cab and Injured

Sixteen Passengers Were Cut and Bruised

Engine of Freight Thrown Clear of Rails

Canadian Press Service.

London, Ont., Sept. 2.—Running at a high rate of speed in an endeavor to make up lost time, Grand Trunk limited express No. 4, eastbound, Chicago to Montreal, broadsided engine No. 1008, of an extra way-freight from London at the cross-over at Komoka, at 6:20 o'clock this morning. W. H. Webster, of Sarnia, fireman on the express, was thrown across the cab and sustained two broken shoulders and several scalp wounds. Sixteen passengers received minor cuts and bruises, caused by flying glass and being thrown from their seats.

The engine of the way freight was thrown clear of the rails when the heavy Mikado crashed into it, blocking traffic on both main lines. The freight was attempting to cross from the westbound main line to the east track. As engine No. 1008 pushed her pilot across the intersection the heavy locomotive of the express bore down upon it. There was no time to reverse, and the two locomotives met with a terrific crash. The express is almost a solid Pullman train and that alone saved many passengers from serious injury. Sleeping passengers were thrown from their berths to the floor when the collision occurred.

Hurry up calls were sent in for the London and Hamilton auxiliaries and scene of the wreck a few minutes after notification of the collision was received here.

The Pullman cars on the express were re-routed Strathroy and sent into the city. The train arrived at 6:45 and the injured brakeman was taken to Victoria hospital. Injured were: William Henry Webster, fireman on No. 4, both shoulders broken and scalp wounds; C. C. Covington, Waukegan, N.C.; neck twisted; C. T. Atkins, Minnesota; R. P. G.T.R. EXPRESS BROADSIDES AN ENGINE

Fireman Thrown Across Cab and Injured

Sixteen Passengers Were Cut and Bruised

Engine of Freight Thrown Clear of Rails

Canadian Press Service.

London, Ont., Sept. 2.—Running at a high rate of speed in an endeavor to make up lost time, Grand Trunk limited express No. 4, eastbound, Chicago to Montreal, broadsided engine No. 1008, of an extra way-freight from London at the cross-over at Komoka, at 6.20 o'clock this morning. W. H. Webster, of Sarnia, fireman on the express, was thrown across the cab and sustained two broken shoulders and several scalp wounds. Sixteen passengers received minor cuts and bruises, caused by flying glass and being thrown from their seats.

The engine of the way freight was thrown clear of the rails when the heavy Mikado crashed into it, blocking traffic on both main lines. The freight was attempting to cross from the westbound main line to the east track. As engine No. 1008 pushed her pilot across the intersection the heavy locomotive of the express bore down upon it. There was no time to reverse, and the two locomotives met with a terrific crash. The express is almost a solid Pullman train and that alone saved many passengers from serious injury. Sleeping passengers were thrown from their berths to the floor when the collision occurred.

Hurry up calls were sent in for the London and Hamilton auxiliaries and scene of the wreck a few minutes after notification of the collision was received here.

The Pullman cars on the express were re-routed Strathroy and sent into the city. The train arrived at 8.45 and the injured brakeman was taken to Victoria hospital. Injured were: William Henry Webster, fireman on No. 4, both shoulders broken
