

Play," whom the Guardian has prudently omitted to answer on the cow business; and of the Reeve whom it says it may answer next week if, forsooth, it thinks him worth an answer! We do not assume the role of apology, the Reeve for two sufficient reasons: first there has been nothing in his conduct as a public man calling for an apology, and secondly, because if there were he and his friends are quite able to defend themselves. In conclusion the Guardian winds up with the declaration that "if any one is so foolish as to imagine that we (the Guardian) will be silenced by such ways as are being tried, or are likely to be made (sic) is a most egregious mistake." This sentence is not quite so clearly expressed as it might be, but we suppose it means that the Guardian is to go on blandering and abusing the Reeve. We did not suppose it would be otherwise. Everybody knows that a donkey when once started will have his tray out, and that no earthly power can stop him. It is not likely that our Uxbridge representative of the tribe will differ from his brethren elsewhere; all that people can do is to clap their hands on their ears and let Neddy have his way. He will probably stop of his own accord sometime.

THE CINCINNATI CONVENTION.

The result of the Republican convention at Cincinnati has been a surprise to most people. While men were speculating whether Blaine, Bristow, Morton, or Conkling would be the chosen standard-bearer of the Republican Party in the United States during the forthcoming presidential contest, lo! an outsider, if we may use expression, comes to the front with a rush, and wins the coveted prize. The cause of this seems to be the jealousy with which the friends of the leading candidates regarded each other. Blaine's men would not vote for Bristow or Conkling, and Morton's men would not vote for any of these candidates. When therefore it appeared that none of the leading candidates were strong enough to secure a nomination, their supporters united their votes in favor of a man who had aroused no personal jealousies, and whose character was without stain and without reproach. Mr. Hayes is therefore what is termed a compromise candidate; and now that he has received and accepted the nomination, his candidature is regarded with much favor by all sections of the Republican Party. Indeed it seems likely that he will pull the full vote of that party, and if so there is great probability that in a few months he will occupy the position of President elect of the American Republic. That

In any event a stirring contest for the presidential chair may be anticipated.

What is now called the Sutton Narrow Gauge Branch, running from Stouffville to Sutton, is to be commenced in a few days. So far as we can learn the above road is to be furnished with rolling stock and run by the T. & N. R. Co. We congratulate the promoters of this road in thus securing the able and economical services of W. Gooderham, Esq., jr., managing director of the Toronto & Nipissing Railway.

We would direct attention to the advertisement which appears elsewhere of the celebrated Mendelssohn Piano, which is now for sale by Mr. Davis of this village. One of these splendid instruments may be seen at Plank's Hotel.

McIntyre, Steel & Co. have just opened a new lot of ready made clothing, wonderfully cheap and durable. Call daily for first choice.

McKinnell & Co. give their customers butter tubs to fill, and allow for them when returned. They want 600 filled this season.

At the Conservative Convention held in Sunderland on 19th inst. Mr. W. H. Gibbs, of Oshawa, was unopposedly chosen as their standard bearer in North Ontario in the approaching contest. In connection with the above we would congratulate Mr. W. H. Gibbs on the pluck he has displayed in thus facing a contest where certain defeat is staring him in the face. There is no other alternative from the fact of his opponent, Mr. Currie, being a strong local commercial man, a good speaker, and well versed in the politics of the day. From daily assurances coming to hand we have no doubt that Mr. Currie will have a handsome majority, much in advance of that of our late respected member, Mr. Adam Gordon.

If you have not yet got any of McKinnell & Co's 5 cent prints, secure them at once, as they will soon be cleared out.

Centennial muslins and dress linens in great variety at McIntyre, Steel & Co's, Uxbridge.

The June number of the Craftsman, and Canadian Masonic Record contains several good papers, among which may be mentioned "The Sailor Freemason, a tale of Real Life," "An Interesting Piece of History," and, in the editorial department, "The Spurious Grand Lodge," and "Grand Lodge Doings." Besides the foregoing there are several selected articles, which will be found of interest by the brethren of the League which culminated in the great battle of Leipzig which forever freed Germany from French tyranny and oppression and humbled the dust the power of the proud conquerors of Marengo, Austerlitz, and Jena. An interesting paper entitled "A Queer Place" Olive Thorne gives some curious details of African habits and customs. Besides the foregoing there are in the "Home" department several valuable articles, which are well worth reading. The number also contains the usual quantity of short and serial stories, poetry, &c. The New Dominion may be had from the publishers, John Dougall & Son, Monticelli—price $1.50 per annum.

committee particulars of the sale and purchase in this matter. Report adopted recommending the warden to make a demand on Mr. M. G. Robson for a reconveyance, failing in which the county solicitor is instructed to take proceedings to cancel the deed from the county to Mr. Robson.

BY-LAW TO LICENSE HAWKERS & PEDDLERS.

Mr. Bickell introduced a by-law to repeal by-law 169 and to impose a duty upon hawkers and peddlers. He gave explanations on the subject, said the treasurer considered it necessary, and that the county of York had passed a similar by-law.

Mr. Paterson found fault with the manner in which the by-law was drawn up.

Warden left the chair until 7 o'clock.

Council resumed, the warden in the chair.

By-law relating to hawkers and peddlers passed.

GRAND JURORS AT SESSIONS.

Mr. Bickell, seconded by Mr. Luke, moved that a memorial to Parliament be adopted praying that hereafter grand jurors at the general sessions of the Peace may be dispensed with and that the clerk send a copy of resolution and memorial to county councils throughout the Province, asking for their co-operation. Mr. Bickell referred to the large item of expense incurred in summoning grand jurors and the non-necessity for such a body at the present time. He had the opinion of the
