

G.T.R.

KINGSTON BRIDGE

MARCH 21, 1904.

it's all up with me.

KINGSTON'S NEW BRIDGE.

GRAND TRUNK TO REPLACE PRESENT STRUCTURE.

Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., on Municipal Ownership — Presentations to Captain Dean and Mr. H. H. Gildersleeve.

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Kingston, March 20.—A new G. T. R. bridge is to be built at Kingston Mills to replace the present one, which was put up about fourteen years ago, when the double track was laid. The Dominion Bridge Company of Lachine has the contract and work is already begun.

On Saturday The Whig staff presented Edward C. Dean, retiring city editor, who leaves on Monday for Ottawa, to assume the duties of managing editor of The Free Press, with a handsome address and a beautiful gold locket with monogram and inscription.

MARCH 21
1904

Globe

Kingston
Bridge

TO, MONDAY, MARCH 21, 1904.

engine attached to No. 7 train | supposed to be strikers.